BEFORE READING	STATEMENT	AFTER READING
	(1) We learn the most important values in life from our parents and family.
	(2) Society has a responsibility to keep everyone safe from violence, regardless of who is causing the violence to happen.
	(3) Rich families have fewer problems than poor families.
	(4) Parents know what is best for their children, and children (even teens) should listen to their parents advice and follow it.
	(5) We can trust religious leaders to do what’s best for us.
	(6) You should know someone a long time before you get married to them.
	(7) If you are always joking around with your friends, then your friends won’t know when to take you seriously.
	(8) Children aren’t able to teach adults anything because the adults have been around longer, are wiser, and know what to do.
	(9) Old literature and movies aren’t useful for learning anymore because they’re really hard to read and they’re about old topics that don’t apply to us today.
